IN SECOND PLACE

Savages Pushed Denver Down a Notch Monday.

Lefty Clunn Allowed Bears Only One Little Score.

If the Savages could win the pennant as easily as they defeated Jack Coffey's Denverites for second place honors Monday afternoon—well, it would be so much like taking the proverbial sweetmeats from infants that the race wouldn't be worth chucks. Six to one was the final score, and while Harrington gets credit for the defeat, at the same time Arellanes should be charged with converting it from a good close game to a resemblance of Germany's triumphs over the Belgians.

Up until the seventh inning both teams had played steady ball and the score stood 2 to 1 in favor of the Savages. Then Coffey took Harrington out to send in a pinch hitter who didn't hit for a single that scored Harrington's mound task he was slammed all over the park and was made to yield four runs before the seventh became score book history.

Harrington had been pitching "swell ball," having allowed only four hits and two runs, and it is possible that the final results might have been otherwise had he been left in charge of the ship. But Coffey thought he saw a chance to improve matters, and the Frenchman failed him.

Lefty Clunn pitched his best brand for the Savages in the first four innings he fanned seven men, and the six monolithic hits he allowed were strung out over as many different innings. Had it not been that he misplaced his control for an instant in the fourth, he would have had a shut out. With two down, he walked Coffey and Shields and then allowed Kelleher to touch him for a single that scored Denver manager. However, he soon found his control again and kept it well within his grasp during the remainder of the game.

First Savage Score.
The Savages drew their first pair in the fifth. Tallion led off with a walk. Rapps sacrificed him to second and Clunn fanned for the second hand down. But Roche doubled to center, scoring Zeke, and Bostick followed with another two-bagger, scoring Roche.

In the first of the seventh after Kelleher hit a fly to Trainer and Shestak had been safe at first on Cochran's error, Coffey made a futile attempt to put one across by sending Whelan in to bat for Harrington. Then, in the last of the seventh, when Arellanes took Harrington's place on the mound, the Savages made it a joke of a game.

Rapps flew out to Ab Galloway and Clunn walked. Roche delivered another of his bouncing two-baggers, scoring Clunn. Bostick was safe on Shields' error and Roche scored. Trainer singled and stole second and Mayer doubled, scoring Bostick and Trainer. The line-up, score and summary:

LANDIS PROMISES DECISION.
Long Delayed Baseball Suits Will Be Settled in Near Future.

Chicago, Ill., June 29.—Judge Landis in the United States court, has promised an early decision in the injunction case involving conflicting claims of players brought about by the entrance into major baseball of the Federal league.

HOW ABOUT THIS ONE?

If the strategic move will benefit his team, and the manager is willing to take the risk, why shouldn't a player be allowed to steal a base when he desires? Why can't a man who has already reached second go back to first, if his presence on first is of first value to the team? It frequently happens that a team will have men on third and second, two out, and a feeble hitter will come up. The club would really be much better off with its men on third and first, and a chance to at least attempt the double steal. The why shouldn't the man on second, if he thinks he can get by with it, plunge back to first, and incidentally, give the man on third a chance to make a break for home? When two players are running bases, and are driven back by well-aimed throws, you see them strutting backward to the hassocks behind them, and it's perfectly proper. Then why not let a man who is perched on second steal back to first, and make a move would put his team in better shape for further aggressive work, or possibly, even result in the scoring of a run?

SPORT WHEEZES

(By Clug.)

Tallion's fielding was the big feature of Monday afternoon's game. Zeke was everywhere he should have been, and three times he made brilliant plays that he had frequently induced something that resembled a thrill when he made a successful catch of one of Lattimore's liners.

McCormick got one hit out of four times at bat, coming somewhat out of his Sunday slump. Roche slugged a full swing and scored, and Trainer connected with one out of three. Sammy Mayer, from Dixie, pushed out the only hit that scored two runs.

Jimmy Jackson admits that managing a team from the bench is hard on splinters and old clothes. Also, Jimmy says that if he had to stay on the bench all the time, he would like to have a squirrel rifle so he could shoot some of the "nuts" once in a while.

The Nebraska State league hasn't blown up, but it gives indication of shrinking considerably. The league has been in the Grand Island and Norfolk will withdraw, leaving the league with only four clubs.

A coast physician announces that he has found a way to prevent cauliflower ears on pug and wrestlers. Said M. D. would have been more of use if he had found a way to prevent charley horses and spavins.

Eddie Monroe, the Savage catcher, has been a sick receiver for the past few days. Eddie's tonsils took the big head while he was in Lincoln and he has been feeding himself with difficulty ever since. Eddie has had a Scotch attack of la grippe.

Although practically every club owner in the Western league has been howling about the competency of the umpires, there is no indication that new faces are going to appear in the masks that hang over the catchers' backs.

Quigley called a game between the Giants and Braves in Boston when, according to a magnate who was there, there was an hour more of daylight. Now he is criticized for calling the Red-Dodgers game in the fourteenth inning when there was light enough for another round or so.

Jack Coffey may or he may not be superstitious. In his own business, But Jack would like to find a reason for his doubleheader luck. To date Denver has played four doubleheaders and has won three of them. The Bears have won the first and lost the second. In each they have been able to make only one score in the second. The explanation will be appreciated by Jack.
